| Extended essay: commentary for example essay | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| DP subject: (Subject-focused essay) | World Studies (Equality and Inequality) | | |
| DP subjects: (Interdisciplinary essay) | English/Psychology | Interdisciplinary framework: | Equality and Inequaity. |
| Research question: | To what extent does the characterisation of females in the James Bond film Skyfall reflect concepts of ambivalent sexism? | | |
| Assessment details | | | |
| Criterion: | Mark awarded: | Commentary: (Incorporating wording from the assessment criteria) | |
| A: Framework for the essay[Maximum possible mark: 6] | 4 | The RQ is relevant to the topic of the investigation. It is clear and focused in relation to the scope of the essay, which compares ambivalent sexism to hostile and benevolent sexism in the selected film. Research methods are mostly suitable for the RQ. They are applied partially effectively. Structural conventions support some aspects of the communication of the research. The final sections lack integration with the main body of the work. | |
| B: Knowledge and understanding[Maximum possible mark: 6] | 5 | Knowledge and understanding are established through specific primary research (the film: S*kyfall)* and are clear throughout the work, but additional sources would have supplemented new perspectives. Effective terminology describing different forms of sexism is accurately employed. Further focus on the conceptual framework gives structure to the research. Relevant concepts are explained but should have been discussed more adeptly. | |
| C: Analysis and line of argument[Maximum possible mark: 6] | 4 | The essay includes partially effective analysis producing some relevant findings. There is a partially consistent line of argument but this tends to be rather mechanical passing from concept to concept without a great deal of holistic awareness. Research findings and conclusions are generally described quite well. | |
| D: Discussion and evaluation[Maximum possible mark: 8] | 4 | There is a balanced discussion of findings though comparative data is used at quite a general level. The student does not clearly evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of the work. | |
| E: Reflection[Maximum possible mark: 4] | 2 | The student evaluates the content of the essay and some of the challenges pertaining to its evolution but transfer of learning is only very generally referenced. | |
| Total marks awarded | 19/30 | | |
| Holistic comment on the essay: | The essay is well written with a clear focus on the primary source and a line of argument that is reasonably well structured around different examples of sexism. The film “text” is treated from a literary point of view and there are some effective uses made of psychological concepts to frame the response. However, the student could have recognized more adeptly how the Bond Franchise has evolved in the stereotyping of women. | | |

| | |
|---|---|
| | The student struggles in Criteria D & E in the evaluative observations without fully addressing the demands of either. Transfer of learning is not addressed in any specific sense, but rather being reduced to general comments. |