A: Framework for the essay [Maximum possible mark: 6]	4	The research question is clear and generally well-aligned with the scope of the essay. The significance and purpose of the research are adequately articulated. However, while the research methods are partially appropriate, there is a need for additional secondary research as the review of existing literature on the topic is limited. The methodology has not been thoroughly explained nor fully justified, and its application is only partially effective. The structural conventions used in the essay effectively support the communication of the research findings.
B: Knowledge and understanding [Maximum possible mark: 6]	5	The research materials selected, though rather limited, are relevant and contribute to establishing some foundational understanding of the subject matter. Accurate use of pertinent terminology demonstrates a good grasp of the topic. However, while some key concepts are explained, their application is only partially effective in conveying a deeper understanding of the subject. There is room for further elaboration and integration of additional concepts to enhance the overall clarity and depth of the analysis.
C: Analysis and line of argument [Maximum possible mark: 6]	4	The essay offers a visual analysis that, while somewhat effective, manages to generate some relevant insights. However, it lacks the necessary support from a thorough literature review and secondary research, which are critical components of a well-rounded extended essay. Although the visual analysis of the works is executed with some competence, the absence of a strong research foundation undermines the depth and overall credibility of the argument. Moreover, the line of argument that ties together the research question, findings, and conclusions is only partially consistent. This inconsistency results in gaps that disrupt the overall coherence of the essay. Additionally, the frequent repetition and redundancy throughout the text dilute the development of a clear, cohesive argument, thereby diminishing its persuasiveness and impact. To strengthen the essay, it is essential to enhance the integration of research into the analysis and to refine the argumentation for greater clarity and effectiveness.
D: Discussion and evaluation	4	The essay offers a partially balanced discussion of the significance of the findings, with some support from appropriate evidence. While opinions are backed by relevant visual evidence,

[Maximum possible mark: 8]		this support remains incomplete, as the integration of secondary research is necessary to provide a more comprehensive analysis. The evaluation of the essay's effectiveness is only partially addressed, lacking a thorough assessment of the strengths and limitations of the research. This hinders a full understanding of how these factors have influenced the interpretation of the findings and the development of the conclusions.
E: Reflection [Maximum possible mark: 4]	3	The reflection on the extended essay learning experience demonstrates a partially evaluative approach, incorporating specific examples to illustrate the student's journey. However, there is room for a deeper analysis of the learning process. The reflection occasionally highlights evidence of the student's growth, such as overcoming challenges related to limited primary sources and adapting research strategies accordingly.

Holistic comment on the essay:	The extended essay presents a clear research question generally aligned with its scope. However, the research methods need more thorough explanation and justification, and additional secondary research is required to strengthen the visual analysis. While the selected materials and terminology show a good understanding of the topic, the application of key concepts and the overall coherence of the argument are only partially effective, especially due to being too repetitive. The essay's discussion of findings is supported by relevant visual evidence but lacks depth due to incomplete integration of secondary research. The reflection on the learning experience includes specific examples of growth, yet it could benefit from a more in-depth analysis of the learning process and its future application. Overall, the essay shows promise but requires more rigorous research and a more consistent argument.
